REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:
2. The closest prior art are Wambach et al (U.S. 5,961,740), Oswald (U.S. PG-PUB 2003/0116185).

Wambach discloses a plate -shaped solar module. The module comprises a plurality of photovoltaic cells arranged between two substrates 20 & 24 and a sealing mass 18 within the internal space 22 (Figure 2; col. 3, line 48-49). Free ends of a lug 2 within the internal space 22 connect to the solar cells (i.e. a blade conductor, Figure 1, col. 3, line 26-28). The solar cells are connected through connecting lines to lug 12 (i.e. a connecting conductor, col. 4, line 32-36). Connecting lines 4 (i.e. an external connector) runs external to the space 22, having an insulating bush 6 on the periphery of the substrate by sealing tape 26 (Figure 1; col. 3, line 25-28 & 50-53). However, Wmbach does not fairly suggest or teach the lug 2 (i.e. the blade conductor) (1) rests on the second substrate in weldless contact with the connecting line of solar cell; nor (2) the contact is established by an angled portion of the lug or the connecting lines; nor (3) the internal space is at a negative pressure.

Oswald discloses sealed thin film photovoltaic modules. A thin film photovoltaic device 3 includes (1) two glass substrates 2 and 4 being sealed by a seal 5 on the edge of the glass substrates (Figure 1; paragraph [0028]); and (2) a plurality of individual photovoltaic cells 8 each connected in series by interconnects 9 within a chamber 13 (i.e. connecting conductors, Figure 1; paragraph [0028]), wherein the chamber can be evacuated or at a partial vacuum (paragraph [0026]). However,

Oswald does not fairly suggest or teach (1) the electric conduits 11 and 12 are not within the chamber13 ;nor (2) a blade conductor resting on the second substrate in weldless contact with the solar cell through an angled portion; nor (3) an external connector terminal comprises insulating material glued to one end of the module.

No other prior art anticipate or fairly suggest, alone, or in combination, the instant claims. Therefore, claims 15-19, 22-26, and 28 are allowed over the prior art in record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
